As a future resident of the Kakaako area i can not stress enough home important alternate types of transportation are necessary for the feasibility of the community. Carsharing is one such alternative that is would be welcomed and warranted in growing urban area that will continue to grow. As i have traveled across the country i have been able to use many different carsharing models and i have i have to say i am nothing but impressed with not only the convenience, but ease of use of the programs. If it is our hope that the urban core is to grow and flourish Honolulu needs these endeavors to if not only to offer residents a new way to travel, but to also change the very culture of how we approach transportation.
